

Statement on Social Justice by Predictive Resources, LLC

Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty – Thomas Jefferson

2020 is shaping up as a year we all will remember, and many may hope to forget. The Coronavirus pandemic has hurt some in our industry, but it has not touched all of us. For that, we are fortunate. But recent events surrounding the death of George Floyd in Minneapolis, where a number of our associates live, and elsewhere, touch all of us. At Predictive Resources, we believe that diverse voices, insights, and expertise fuel our innovative culture and ultimately, our success.

Predictive wants more entrepreneurs, more investors, more leaders, and more innovators from every community around the world. We all benefit. The fact that some voices have been silenced is anti-American, anti-growth, and antithetical to what we believe at Predictive.

We reject racism, inequality of opportunity, hatred, and cruelty. As well, we reject violence and the destruction of property that undermines the efforts of peaceful demonstrators.

We will expand our commitment in helping ensure that our associates and our fellow humans are safer, treated fairly, and given every opportunity to live out their true potential.

This month, we are providing an additional $150.00 to each of our associates' pay for them to support equality, justice, and peace in a way that's meaningful to them. We encourage and challenge our fellow life settlement organizations to join us in funding entities that make a priority of fairness, decency and respect for all.

As citizens and investors, we all gain in a world and a business environment that makes it a priority to treat everyone with the dignity and respect they deserve. The world and its markets operate best when the opportunities for growth, impact, and prosperity are clearly available to all.

We'd like to be able to say that this was our idea, but it wasn't. Thanks to The Motley Fool for its inspiring leadership in this regard.
